

Cut, Grow and Preserve Their Motto at Greely Tree Services

The harsh Canadian winter with its heavy snows and freezing rain can take a toll on your trees. With the arrival of spring, you may require some cleanup around your property. Perhaps it's time to cut down that tree that continues to threaten your backyard shed with every severe snowfall or downpour or maybe your hardwood just needs a good trim to allow for better air flow and a healthier growing environment. Whatever work you need done, Greely Tree Services is the place to call.

Owner and master arborist Paul Bradley has more than 18 years experience. His services include tree cutting and removal, trimming, planting, stump grinding and more. If your tree appears unhealthy, he can diagnose the problem and offer solutions; he can advise homeowners on how to prevent disease from striking your greenery and if planting is what you have in mind, he can offer suggestions on what trees are best suited for your needs.

Unlike many tree companies, Paul does not take any money upfront. You will get a free estimate and only after the work is completed to your total satisfaction will you have to pay. And you will never even know they were there! Paul says they pride themselves on the cleanup done following the job. "You won't even see sawdust in your garden" he promises. Whether a customer wants all the wood hauled away or cut into lengths for firewood, Paul says it will be done, and in a timely fashion. You can expect to wait no more than two to three weeks at the most for the job to get done.

Paul is personable, professional and passionate about his work. His business is customer oriented and 100% guaranteed. Check out his website at www.greelytreeservices.com or call him at 613-282-3301.
